Bank failures To Indorse Any One for a number 49 with liabilities of $18,356,-237 in 1910, as against 44 with liabilitles of only $4,325,914, and yet we suppose there will be some of the PROGRESSIVE ancient orators of the Republican party who will still be talking about the panic of 1893 during Cleveland's administration, forgetting Roosevelt's and Taft's and we are not over it yet by any means. The only difference now and at the beginning of the pani is that it has been with us so long the people are used to it-a little like the chickens of the old fellow who moved so often that every morning the chickens would lie down and cross their legs to be tied.

But don't forget the fact that the panic started under the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, the mighty hunter, and it has continued under the administration of William H. Taft, who he made his heir apparent and to whom he handed down his "polleies."
